The Lexington Library and Learning Resource Center is now on Twitter!

For each day in 2010 the Library will be testing your knowledge of our book collection – each morning we will tweet a line from a book in the collection to our Twitter account WhatstheBook. We’ll give you the answer the following morning along with a new line to guess. Follow us and join the fun!

The Lexington Library and Learning Resource Center is also on Facebook!

Become a fan and keep up with news and other tidbits both fun and serious.

Kentucky Kyleidoscope is new resource offering educators, students and researchers easy access to some of Kentucky’s most unique resources that span history from 1750 to today. Historical information organized by theme, with instructional worksheets, historical details and links to some of the best digitized photographs and documents from archives available online. The site is a joint project of Kentucky Dept of Education, University of Kentucky Libraries Digital Programs and Kentucky Virtual Library.

The Library will be offering trial access to the following databases during winter quarter. Talk to a librarian or see this page for more information (SUSCORP login required).

- Research Starters : Sociology. Study and research guides of about 3,000 words in length written by researchers, scholars and other subject matter experts on current newsworthy topics. [EBSCO]
- Food Science Source. Full-text database designed to support the informational needs of the food industry at all levels, including food safety, food processing, agribusiness and culinary innovation.
- Business Source Complete. Provides increased access to indexing and e-journals from Business Source Premier.
