New course! New equipment! Mechanical Engineering Technology is on the move! From the campus director

A wonderful history Louisville Technical Institute has grown from humble and solid beginnings. In 1961, twelve students began studying drafting in a room in the basement of the Heyburn Building at 3rd and Broadway. There was one part-time instructor. By day, they all worked at the same company, a company that needed more capable draftsmen to design and produce its complex conveyor systems. What they shared in their classes at night they put to use in their jobs by day.

Both the conveyor company and the school succeeded and grew. Today, Louisville Tech has over 500 students in nine different career programs. The students still come from a variety of backgrounds, and all tend to share a practical approach to their college educations. They want their college classes to lead to successful careers as draftsmen, graphic designers, electronics technicians and other in-demand occupations. The instructors still are experienced professionals who have worked in or currently working in the fields that they are teaching.

If Louisville Tech sounds like the college environment for you, please contact us by telephone or through our website and schedule a personal visit. We would love to show you our approach to college and some outstanding careers.

Sincerely,
David Winkler, Executive Director

Welcome students

Welcome to our new students. We are here to help you enjoy your educational experience and succeed in your chosen career. And welcome back to all our returning students; we hope you enjoyed your recent vacation. This issue of Techniques is dedicated to the exciting and fast events which took place over the last few quarters. We hope you enjoy reading it and have a great year!

Check out what’s inside

PAGE 2 Interior Design Highlights: Abby Thorne, Interior Design alum Project Woman Student Organizations

PAGES 3 & 4 A peek inside some classrooms

PAGES 5, 6, 7, & 8 Graduate Employment Success

PAGE 8 LTI is on the menu at Texas Roadhouse

PAGE 9 Fun student activities

PAGE 10 Career Fair Student Housing is great

LOUISVILLE TECHNICAL INSTITUTE & THE INTERIOR DESIGN INSTITUTE VOLUME 2008 • ISSUE 1