COMMITTEES — MAKING 1+1=MORE THAN 2!

The old saying that "no one person is as smart as us all" has proven to be true time and again at Sullivan College. Clubs, organizations, and committees all play major roles in everything ranging from student activities to curricular decisions and planning.

Everyone on campus is familiar with the important role clubs and organizations play in student life. Not so familiar, however, is the part committees play in the functioning of the college. For example, the winners of the annual Career Scholarships offered by Sullivan College to high school seniors are selected by the Scholarship Committee, which is composed of members of the faculty. Even major changes in the Learning Resource Center are recommended to the college administration by a committee, the Library Committee.

Active Throughout the Year

In all, nine committees function year-round. They provide suggestions, conduct surveys, assist students and constantly work to improve Sullivan College. In addition to faculty and staff, students also serve as active members on many of these standing committees.

Will Hammons, chair of the Housing Committee, is pleased with the way the students, faculty and staff function together on his committee. "Each group brings a unique and valuable perspective to the committee. Student involvement has been great," Hammons said.

Keep up the good work, committees!
