Paralegal Studies Students Visit State Capitol

Members of Sullivan College’s Paralegal Society recently visited the Kentucky state House of Representatives and Senate to get a first-hand look at these legislative bodies in action. While in Frankfort, the students also had the opportunity to meet with Governor Paul Patton in his office. Following their meeting with the governor, the students were taken on a tour of the capitol.

“These field trips are a tremendous way of enabling our students to apply their classroom learning to a real world situation,” said Paralegal Studies Program Coordinator Helen Bongard.

This is but one of several field trips sponsored and hosted by Sullivan College’s Paralegal Society throughout the academic year.
