Getting a feel for the future!

"We may doze, but we never close" is a favorite saying of Sullivan University’s Lexington campus Executive Director, Dr. Jim Ploskonka. Though current students have a two-week break between quarters, the campus is still busy preparing for the new students’ arrival. Each quarter new students, parents and guests attend orientation sessions – a wonderful opportunity for students to learn more about their academic program, meet their advisors, make new friends, and become more familiar with the campus and the resources available to them.

Though this time can be anxious for many, events and activities are planned throughout the day to make everyone, including parents, more comfortable with their upcoming experience. By the end of the day, new students leave the campus with books, Student I.D.s, parking permits and class schedules and are now ready for their first class!
