Catering Major Continues Its Fantastic Growth

Under the leadership of chef instructor Kim Jones, Sullivan’s new catering major continues its dramatic growth. This associate degree program is a combination of culinary arts and catering leading to positions as professional caterers. Students are entering the College from across the country to enter this unique program which was the first in the country to be offered by a major hospitality college.

The students continue to plan and perform for a variety of major catering events including: the Barnstable-Brown Derby Party, the Louisville Zoo’s “Zoofari!,” numerous private weddings and other special events as they gain experience in a variety of catering and catering-related fields. A few openings still remain for both fall and winter classes in this field. Please contact 1-800-844-1354 for additional information.
